Become a licensed general contractor. Skip the 4,000 hours.

Free practice exams for the contractor licensing path. No signup. No email. No catch.

“You need two years on a crew before they'll license you.”

That's the default path in Utah — 4,000 documented hours of construction work. Almost nobody knows the law allows a bypass.

One national exam replaces the experience requirement.

The NASCLA Commercial General Building exam: 115 questions, open book. Pass it once and it also counts as your trade exam in 18 states:

- Utah
- Virginia
- California
- Florida
- N. Carolina
- Tennessee
- Arizona
- Nevada
- Georgia
- + 9 more

Utah's law exam is 60 questions. Take it from your kitchen.

The Business & Law exam: 2 hours, open book, 70% passes, $68 — remote-proctored from home. That's the whole state-side hurdle.

448 practice questions on the official blueprints.

- 01 Timed simulations that mirror the real exams question-for-question
 - 02 Instant grading — every answer explained, with the code section
 - 03 Weak-subject drills built from your own results

Miss a question? It comes back until you own it.

Spaced repetition brings misses back at 1, 3, 7, 14, and 30 days. A readiness meter tells you when you're safe to book the real exam.
